Believed from all fear of invasion from abroad, he turned his attention to home affairs, and it is specially recorded of him that he fostered trade and sent agents into different countries to obtain a supply of arms, horses, etc. The obstinate defence of Sohar by Ahmed-bin-Said, coupled with the death of their ally, Seif-bin-SuMn, led the Persians to propose a reconciliation with the former, on condition of their being allowed to depart unmolested, carrying their arms and stores with them.

Facts and Brief History of Oman

He began forthwith to collect troops both by sea and land, and went in person to Miiskat in order to obtain a levy from thence. During the colloquy he made a sign to the slave, who joined him instantly and began abusing the Arab roundly, saying : " How dare you contend with the Imam? This example substantiates the fact that there are different opinions concerning the transmission of the title Sayyid.
