The Places We Find Photography

The resulting prints are dynamic, tightly framed portrayals of the sculptures. I blurred my vision to imagine what these paintings would have looked like in black and white.

Walker Evans Archives

For this photograph, Evans captured a seemingly oxymoronic sign as men loaded it onto a New York City truck. Robert Adams, North Beach Peninsula, Pacific County, Washington, from Sea Stories, ca. There is more diversity in race, gender, and age; women walk unescorted by men, and the photographer is challenged.

Walker Evans: Depth of Field

A staffer at Fortune and Time magazines, Evans actually reached the height of his powers toward the end of The Great Depression.

Walker Evans (1903

A jagged, empty hanger dangles in the upper left corner—emotions brood in the sensation of death. Did Evans choose to evade the consequences of looking behind those more polished surfaces? The more people around, the more you see what is distinctive to crossroads.
