Some Paiutes the current spelling of the name of the tribe had been relocated from western Nevada, where Winnemucca was born, to the Malheur Reservation in southeastern Oregon, created in 1872 by executive order of President Ulysses Grant. By skillfully blending historic photos and diary entries with contemporary footage of the long trek, Ric Burns, Lisa Ades and their fine filmmaking team have created a compelling metaphor for the American expansion westward. Close to Home: The Tammy Boccomino Story chooses a less showy subject—a young suburban housewife and her family.
