In Ashiwake Obune he repeatedly stressed the importance of rhetoric in writing poetry. That belief was based on their clear presence in the Shinto classics, and the fact that it is impossible to deny the real presence of human unhappiness and evil in the world. It is here that the essence of the Japanese Way is manifest.

Finally, let's experience making Matsuzaka mōmen by making a small placement mat. Norinaga's point here is that the two goddesses Suseri-bime and Sasurahime should be considered the same, based on philological analysis of their names which Norinaga provides, as well as since they both are associated with the underworld.

Norinaga was perhaps the first Japanese scholar to point out the characteristics of the Japanese.

Motoori Norinaga

He handed Norinaga an annotated copy of the Kojiki. The meeting was truly fateful in that Norinaga devoted himself to the study of the Kojiki over the next thirty years.
