Review of Japan by Botond Bogнар

What urges us now to engage in a hermeneutics of contact situation began at the age of the Great Navigations, which brought different cultures and religions of the world into radically new hermeneutical situations. The Sun, called in Yucatan Maya Kinich Ahau Lord of the Solar Eye, was identified with Itzamna, the celestial dragon, life principle associated with water. This paper first summarizes two specific reasons why such development did not emerge in the academic study of religion over the last century and then explores an alternative set of reasons requiring its development now.
