They are constructed with state-of-the-art materials, designed to meet the needs of the most demanding music enthusiasts. The painted surface of the face contrasts with the loose, almost gestural strokes that describe the shiny pink dress and delicate, transparent lace of her collared apron and fancy sleeves. Nonetheless, the lack of open scholarly discussion regarding this work has encouraged the author of this site to label this work as questionable. Since the earl was a newcomer to London emigrating from his native Ireland, he may have selected works that would help him fit in with his peers and elevate his social standing.

Pamela (paintings)

Combined with its well-preserved period architecture, re-designed between 1764 and 1779 by none other than Robert Adam, the house is a virtual time capsule, one that generally facilitates what might be called historical re-experience. There are far more paintings by these two giants of 18th century portraiture in the Iveagh Bequest than by any other two artists; together their 24 works at Kenwood compose more than a third of the original collection. Thus does one become Hebe, the Greek goddess of youth and cup-bearer to the greater gods.

Rembrandt, Vermeer, Hals, and Snyders team with Boucher, Batoni, Gainsborough and Lawrence—to say nothing of the sixteen, yes sixteen, paintings by Sir Joshua Reynolds—to populate Kenwood with captivating historical personalities. Stuart and the dog are beautifully painted, but the composition as a whole has an abstract beauty. He merges drawing and painting.

TITLES Over the years, scholars and museums have given a number of titles to each of Vermeer's paintings. Remodelled by Robert Adam in the 18th century, in 1928 it became the home of the Iveagh Bequest, a superb collection of old master paintings donated by Edward Cecil Guinness, 1st Earl of Iveagh.
