Could we in some way be partly responsible for what is happening? Yeah, and lets nuke Switzerland while we're at it, because there is a link between their banks and terrorism too. Campbell explores the significance of the diamond trade in Sierra Leone, the West African country formed by the British to reward African American slaves who fought for the Crown in the American Revolution.

Blood Diamonds on Apple Books

The world won't be safe until we switch to 'fair' trade. DAYS AFTER 9-11- the American govt didn't do the right thing because there are some tenuous ties to al Queda money laundering and the diamond trade in this country that ending Sierra Leone's 80 years of barbarism that no one in the world closer to them gave a shit about the day after 9-11 should have been the top priority of the American people. Nonetheless, informative, well written and researched and no holds barred in terms of where responsibility for the brutality lies and the failures of the international community effectively to intervene.
