The reaction to the site has served as a signal that the President's House site has the potential to become a major national icon in the heart of the City. Morris refurbished and expanded the house, and lived there while.

Why is George Washington the greatest president?

An enlightened, civilized man was disinterested and impartial, not swayed by self-interest and self-profit. While no one is perfect, Washington truly tried to live by his own words and principles at all times. Over the course of the grueling eight-year war, the colonial forces won few battles but consistently held their own against the British.
