Our Mission and Values

Eleven teams across the nation considered the principles, verified and clarified the meaning of each, and described how each comes into play in their own team environments. Published by Elsevier Ireland Ltd.

The Institute of Human Values in Health Care

The importance of values cannot be underestimated.

Our human health care mission

Mitchell is Past-President of the American Academy of Nursing and the Robert G. Clear roles and responsibilities have been shared across the team and team members have committed to shared accountability. In addition to particular behaviors that facilitate the function of the team, we heard from the teams we interviewed that certain personal values are necessary for individuals to function well within the team.

Our human health care mission

Roles and responsibilities are discussed verbally and written into the care plan. Since roles on the team vary by both professional capability as well as function, patients and their caregivers must be fully informed about these roles. Based upon the results of the interviews, we refined the team-based care principles and values, identified key themes, and added illustrative examples.

The International Charter for Human Values in Healthcare: An interprofessional global collaboration to enhance values and communication in healthcare

Discussion Paper, National Academy of Medicine, Washington, DC. Forty percent did not believe that those attributes were important, and this proportion is roughly the same proportion of doctors who have doubts about whether, if it arises, something should be done about suboptimal or poor performance. How can teams that have been disrupted or lost some functionality understand what efforts are needed to regain it? Data already suggest that referrals from primary care providers to specialists rose dramatically from 1999 to 2009.
