A bit too Chip Chip Cheerio compared to war lit from more recent wars. At Winterbourne the two discover a large specimen of the toxic giant hogweed plant Heracleum mantegazzianum growing, while Rosemary also spies Doctor Whittaker and Alicia in a closer embrace than their position as friends would indicate.

Even the ending of the book was disappointing. Following the discovery that her husband has left her, moves out of her home and arrives at the house of Sam and Vickie Trent. Mowat tells an astonishing tale of the King of England having a picnic in a zone where Mowat has some responsibility for coordinating air cover. I do appreciate Mowat's ability to write. I finished it only because it was too cold to get out of bed and go look for something else.

And no Bird Sang by Mary McCarthy

I'd rather have liked seeing some completeness to the work, which was pretty short, even though I understand that he left it this way deliberately.
