Clarice Lispector: A New Biography

The Hour of the Star tells the story of Macabéa, one of the iconic characters in Brazilian literature, a starving, poor typist from , the state where Lispector's family first arrived, lost in the metropolis of Rio de Janeiro. Macabéa's name refers to the , and is one of the very few overtly Jewish references in Lispector's work. Only the middle daughter, Tania April 19, 1915 — November 15, 2007 , kept her name.

Clarice Lispector : a bio

She was the youngest of three daughters of Pinkhas Lispector and Mania Kringold Lispector. What saved me from the monotony of Bern was living in the Middle Ages, it was waiting for the snow to pass and for the red geraniums to be reflected once again in the water, it was having a son born there, it was writing one of my least liked books, The Besieged City, which, however, people come to like when they read it a second time; my gratitude to that book is enormous: the effort of writing it kept me busy, saved me from the appalling silence of Bern, and when I finished the last chapter I went to the hospital to give birth to the boy. Injured in an accident in 1966, she spent the last decade of her life in frequent pain, steadily writing and publishing novels and stories until her premature death in 1977.
