Antique, Rare & Out of Print Books

Group Exhibition Catalogue Calder, Alexander. Pedder published her edition of Dennie's letters in 1936, she said that she did not have access to the letters to Vose; but she did include the text of typewritten transcriptions made by the genealogist Thomas Bellows Peck 1842-1915 , probably in the 1880s.

Antique Prints Blog: Influence of French prints on early American lithography

With the advent of mass printing, the great botanical and garden design publications were imitated by a multitude of smaller scale books and journals illustrated by inexpensive media, such as wood engraving, succeeded by photomechanical processes in the late nineteenth century. A father teaches the daughter about the folly of superstition.

American Revolution

The NSLM collections span over 450 years of the history of equestrian sport, fly fishing, wing shooting, other field sports, and country life. Soon after, Calder received commissions to make both Mercury Fountain for the Spanish Pavilion at the Parisian World Fair a work that symbolized Spanish Republican resistance to fascism and Lobster Trap and Fish Tail, a sizable mobile installed in the main stairwell of the Museum of Modern Art in New York. Years later, the bridge was renamed for local contributor to culture and architecture, Horace King.

A Guide to Collecting Lithographs

Several pages are devoted to a complete account unfortunately without titles of orders placed, e. Indeed, on careful examination, one finds that the title page imprint is actually a cancel slip pasted over the original Reutlingen imprint! Trois siècles d'art aux États-Unis. Nine years later, at age 21, Elbridge must have gone to sea! The knowledge thus gained, helps materially to light the pathway as to what is the best sort of autographic material to consider for future investment.
