Myrna Braga

Each era is analysed and represented in relation to its respective social environment and political developments. At the time that we met Charlene and Cheyenne for the interview, they were still experimenting with the media and form that the works will take. In her study of Singaporean attitudes towards cosmopolitanism, Ho 2006:397 argues that while the government's position is that Singaporeans should encourage new migrants to make the city-state their home, they have made it clear that Singaporeans should not put down roots in other nations.

In a similar vein, emigrating out of Singapore for the purposes of sparing one's children the burden of competing in the highly elitist educational system that Tan and Goh 2011:621 describe as 'cruel' and 'relentless', or to evade the onerous requirement for males to undergo two years of compulsory military service in the collective interest of the nation, are construed by the government and patriots as refusals to perform the required rituals that define Singaporean national identity. The revitalization was therefore not a deep-seated emotional or primordial attachment to their identity; instead, it was used to improve the position of the community in Singapore.

In this sense, maintaining Eurasian ethnicity means giving prioritized loyalty to the residual percentage of one's European ancestry, as this is the essence that distinguishes Eurasians from other 'races'.

Mary Beatrice Klass

While the personal reasons for his departure are unknown, it would seem illogical to assume that this vanguard left due to marginalization in the public service.

Remarks by SMS Sim Ann at the Turning Passion Into Profits Building a Community for Small Food and Beverage Businesses

As the official position of the government's CMIO framework reinforces the false notion that pure races exist Veyalutham 2017 , the notion of European-Asian hybridity disrupts the logics of the geopolitical certainties reified by the state.
