The metaphor and the relation to its site are poetical and imaginative, for the building does not literally illustrate by its formation the architect's comparison. The George Marshall Papers 1836-1993 consists of Marshall's professional materials accumulated during his lifelong career as a leading conservationist. It has taken the author years of working in the portrait profession to focus and collect her approach to color portraiture and she presents her ideas in a way that will inspire even those who are not photographers.
