Cataloger's Reference Directory: Tools and Resources for and Metadata Librarians

Every country has some unique requirements for which provision has to be made and these should be the focus of local activity. In Ireland, publishers may be required to deposit up to 13 copies and failure to comply with the legal deposit requirements can result in a substantial fine.

The copies can be obtained through the Xerox Copy Centre. Individuals who wish to use library materials need to contact their institution library or local public library to arrange for them to borrow the materials on their behalf. It also urges WIPO to take control of the public domain and to ensure that resources in the public domain are not rendered inaccessible through the use of Purpose and value The Mission of the National Bibliography Establishing the need for a national bibliography Increasingly, with new sources of information becoming available via the web, there is potentially competition with other bibliographic services, such as books-in-print, national union catalogues, catalogues of university or research libraries, and even Amazon.

National bibliographic records in the digital information environment

This may not be a serious problem because the UNIMARC records produced as part of the BIBLINK demonstrator will undergo further conversion to a number of national MARC formats and will be enhanced before being re-converted into UNIMARC and stored in the BIBLINK database. National cataloguing rules are nearly all derived from the ISBDs, but with a number of significant interpretations.

Best Practice for National Bibliographic Agencies in a Digital Age

Generally speaking older legislation tends to leave out newer types of materials, such as audio-visual or electronic materials. It is applicable to physical and digital collections of all kinds, including library, art and museum materials.
