explainer

They even have a to walk you through building your creation. Of course, attention is a hot commodity, which means most explainers have high production value and a clear call-to-action. Some services involve few, if any, physical objects, making live action an unrealistic option.

The Film Explainer

. Perhaps its greatest achievement, though, is its wonderful three-layered narrative voice in which the Grandfather, the Grandmother and the grandson unite to tell their story.

Explainer: what is production design?

Each one has pros and cons, and the best explainer videos know when to leverage each to best tell their story. This is just one of the questions a production designer working on a film or TV show helps audiences answer. Live-action explainer videos are usually best for companies selling a physical product or people-oriented service, such as a restaurant or consulting group.

Gert Hofmann: 'The Film Explainer'

How to make an explainer video We're going to take you through the steps of how to make your own explainer video! Donnie is aware of what he must do now so he drives up the mountain for a better vantage point. This often limits the methods available to tell your story. Manipulated Living All the people connected to the Living Receiver are the Manipulated Living and these people will subconsciously help guide the Living receiver.
