When Chisolm returned empty-handed, Jefferson offered him a bonus of twenty-five dollars to go after the man a second time. He believed that slavery was morally and politically wrong, but still he wrote a slave code for his state and opposed a national attempt in 1819 to limit the further expansion of the institution.

Thomas Jefferson

Capitol, the White House, the Washington Monument, and the Lincoln and the Thomas Jefferson Memorials. Taking the Declaration of Independence in conjunction with Jefferson's antislavery utterances well publicized in the North for more than two decades , northerners were able on the eve of the Civil War to read antislavery intentions into the Declaration of Independence itself, and thus to enlist both the Declaration and its author on their side in the coming war.
