In this situation a number of projects that were included in the anti-SDI programs continued into 1989-1990 and beyond. Three projects emerged from the competition and managed to reach the stage of flight tests by 1990. Communist tendencies in Greece and Italy were seen as an ideological attack on the heart of the liberal order as represented by the Western hemisphere, to which the US needed to respond as the guarantor of liberal democracy and capitalism.

The spacecraft was also supposed to test a recoilless exhaust system for a gas-dynamic laser that was to be installed in subsequent flights. This, however, did not happen and the Soviet had not made any significant adjustments of its negotiating positions compared to the ones it had in 1983.

Foreign Policy: 16 Elements of Foreign Policy

The ideology of communism remained an important factor of the foreign policies of communist nations during 1945-90. His domestic and foreign policy agendas are carefully crafted to reflect Russian mores and norms.

Russia's Global Ambitions in Perspective

Finally, the evolution of the Soviet attitudes toward SDI suggests that the main factor that contributed to the ending the confrontation of the Cold War was the willingness of the United States and the Soviet Union to engage in a dialogue on reduction of their nuclear forces.
