Be mean with it — you need less than you think, much less than for lino prints. Before you call potential investors, you need to first evaluate whether you are ready to do business.

Combining collagraphs and mono

I base my basket designs on traditional birch bark basket forms that first nations women across North America have made and used for millennia to store and cook food and to carry water. This workshop is designed for people who have no previous printmaking experience and will also appeal to experienced printmakers. Your company name will determine how customers perceive your business in the future.

Printmaking Organizations

Artists must submit an edition of 12 prints in order to participate.
