Ossulstone

This seems to have been the case for Roland Cotton, who at age twenty-six abandoned redress of his lost inheritance and moved one hundred and thirty miles north of London to the East Midlands where he opened a law office in the town of Derby, married Mary Hulbert, and fathered four children, Mary, John, Roland, and Thomas.

Edmonton Hundred

I think part of what balances the steep HTA is another measurement that differs from the two Salsas: a 5mm lower bottom bracket. She brought him Lirling manor and advowson, Rushworth manor, called Gonvile's, Fawconer's, and Maynwaryn's, all which, with 100 acres in Moringthorp, were held at 3 fees, of John Mowbray Duke of Norfolk, as of his manor of Fornacet, and were settled on Oliver Groos, John Kirtling, clerk, and John Intwood, his trustees.

Edmonton Hundred

In the 1690s and early 1700s several were active in the campaign against profane swearing and cursing, working on the Sabbath, and prostitution; and in the 1720s and 1730s several Justices conducted campaigns to suppress gaming and other disorderly houses. The style of the court is Herling cum Membris, all the manors being now joined. The county was divided into six hundreds, of which one, Ossulstone Hundred, covered the metropolitan area.

Gore Hundred
