Parallels to the German poem from Scandinavia are found especially in the heroic lays of the Poetic Edda and in the Völsunga saga. If it looks as if it has been glazed, then it is assumed that the brittle copper has merged with the softer tin. Smelting most prominently takes place in a blast furnace to produce pig iron, which is converted into steel.

Lied

In 1780, he obtained a post as regimental doctor in , a job he disliked. All run, save and flee in fright, Bright as daylight is the night, Chains of eager hands are plying, Pails are flying, Arching water-spouts are playing, Flames with hissing fountains spraying; Howling wild the storm is straying, Driving on the flame with roars. Dame Nature's daughter, free and strong! Many Bell parodies shifted the observations about the production process to the production of food and drinks like bread, beer and coffee.
