States, the United Kingdom, and Europe. Between 1983 and 1985, Dennis traveled in the United Kingdom and Europe, researching contemporary and historical figurative art.

Dennis GEDEN, 1944, Canada.

Each painting is at once a history painting, a portrait, a landscape, a still life, and, by virtue of the consistent repetition of the artist's own idiosyncratic figurative style, strangely generic. From 1968 to 1970, he lived in Toronto, where he joined La Cimaise Gallery in 1970.

In North Bay, Dennis was an occasional and part-time art instructor at Canadore College between 1973 and 2001. Titles of the paintings or texts included within the picture field start the viewer off on a narrative path, figures in the paintings point to or display objects and symbols that seem to be significant -- but for the contemporary viewer the suggested story-telling is rarely complete or self-contained.
