So, our programmes of study are already different and that does not preclude anybody from coming across to teach in our system from a different system. The Muskingum-Cunge-8 Point Routing method was used to route the flood along the Nairobi river channel. These bring focus and self-evaluation, realism and ambition, challenge and support to work and progress.

What is the impact of Learning Management System (LMS) in future?

This mode is particularly suitable for studies in business and administration, but means can be found for offering science courses by this method, as has been shown by the University of South Africa UNISA. Specifically vocational education is currently delivered principally after GCSE, either in school sixth forms or in FE Colleges, and we believe that in the majority of cases a wide curriculum of general studies is most appropriate for eleven-to sixteen-year-olds.
