30 Portrait Photos of Beautiful Women of the U.S. Army Nurse Corps During Vietnam War ~ Vintage Everyday

Dix, which was a good thing. I wondered why we were fighting this war. She served in the burn unit of the 36th Evacuation Hospital in Vung Tau and at Pleiku in the 71st Evacuation Hospital, 30 miles from the Cambodian border in the Central Highlands, just 10 to 20 minutes by helicopter from the field.

Army nurse remembers one town's loss, keeps fallen soldiers' memory alive

Apart from nurses, only nine Navy women—all officers—served in Vietnam, including Lieutenant Elizabeth G. Army Nurse Corps Reserve on 18 April 1968.

Mother, Nurse, Vietnam War Veteran: How Service Shaped Grace Moore's Life

The plane had been on a mission for Operation Babylift, which placed Southeast Asian orphans with families in the United States; some 138 people were killed in the crash, including many Vietnamese children and a number of female civilians working for U. By December 1968, 900 nurses in Vietnam worked in 23 Army hospitals, and one convalescent center with a total of 5,283 beds.

A VETERAN'S STORY: One Vietnam nurse, mending and remembering

Get on with your life. Lane was buried with full military honors at Sunset Hills Burial Park in her hometown of Canton, Ohio. Yet the contributions of these eight nurses, and of the approximately other American women who participated in the war as medical personnel and support staff between 1956 and 1975, is a largely untold story.

First Lieutenant Sharon Ann Lane

Another opportunity for healing presented itself when her brothers in arms believed that their battalion commander may have been treated by her as well—he had been in a body cast.

The History of Wartime Nurses

There was no running water. On 11 November 1969, the Fitzsimons Hospital named its recovery room the Lane Recovery Suite and put a plaque and a picture on display. The cover is spot on.
