Soli Deo Gloria: To God Alone Be the Glory

The second half was entirely chaplain related skills—preaching, military funerals, military weddings, counseling soldiers with PTSD, counseling with absolute confidentiality, advising the commander about how religion affects the mission after all, we were fighting an enemy entirely motivated by religious impulses. Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth, As it is in heaven.

Seeing a man in an Army uniform with a cross above his last name truly intrigued me. That is, that person who made the right choice and the good choice did it because he was more righteous than his neighbor. In light of that, it is truly difficult to argue the SBC as a whole possesses an animus against biblical eldership, church discipline, and Calvinism.

Habits of Grace ~ A Book Review

As pastors, worship leaders, members of worship teams and lay leaders we may often balk at going back to the basic discipline of making sure we are suited up properly for our ministry. And often the team would balk over this explaining they were great champions and had played for years! The biggest question any semi-Pelagian or Arminian has to face at the practical level is this: Why did I choose to believe the gospel and commit my life to Christ when my neighbor, who heard the same gospel, chose to reject it? So integrating with the staff was another proving ground of leadership for me.

Soli Deo Gloria: A Catholic Perspective

For we know at least two fundamental things about our actions: 1 that we cannot do anything without God, and 2 that we really do things. Some of the seminaries strongly support Biblical, or Nouthetic, counseling, even assisting ACBC in providing training. I have had amazing debates with people who disagree with me, and I also learned how to work effectively with people who disagree with me.

Adam L. Feldman

Being part of a large congregation and school with about 22 called church workers—both commissioned and ordained—that process became familiar to me. After all, one day we will all worship before our Lord and maker, not in separate venues, but in His Holy sanctuary as one Holy nation from every tribe, tongue, language and people from all generations! This episode is one that needs to be shared. I think you can see the pattern here.
