Why on Earth Is Someone Stealing Unpublished Book Manuscripts?

For fiction, I look for authors who not only have a strong individual voice, but who also are far enough along in the process that their manuscript is very close to being ready to send to publishers—writers who will not need coddling, hand-holding, and guidance through draft after draft until their novel is in decent shape. She has consulted on projects for a myriad of different companies, and realizes now that her management consulting career is over her brain is filled with data about almost every industry.

Writing

I focus mainly on adult titles, but do represent a very select group of juvenile non-fiction projects as well.

Thoughts on writing from a Cul

Contact information for nearly 100 additional newspaper book editors and book review websites. Add to this scene the end of the Net Book Agreement and you can see that publishing is suffering its own disastrous climate change. Perhaps mention a book the agent has represented that you admire.

The Making of a Bestseller: Success Stories from Authors and the Editors, Agents, and Booksellers Behind Them by Brian Hill

Michael Murphy, Author of Try and Catch the Wind Contributing Experts include: Marketing Fauzia Burke, Kathleen Gage, Shel Horowitz, Carolyn Howard-Johnson, Paul J. May contain limited notes, underlining or highlighting that does affect the text.

Dee Power

Shel Horowitz shares his secrets to being a terrific radio guest. I was thrilled to find that it was jam-packed with news-I-can-use, rubber-meets-the-road information. What do you look for—in both a book and a writer—when deciding whether or not to partner with an author? Describe your writing background, publishing credits, or educational level.

The Publishing Primer

Publishers would prefer this practise as it will reduce their storage costs.
