Whatever the cause of this great moral mutation, which at the moment remains obscure, the result was a shift from a bisexual world divided between the penetrators and the penetrated, to one divided between reproductive heterosexuality and sterile homosexuality; from one of marriage as a relatively rare legal condition undertaken for purposes of property disposal and inheritance, to marriage as a normal condition of that great majority of mankind unable to live a life of total chastity; from one of ethically neutral male bisexual promiscuity in marriage, to an ideal of male and female marital fidelity; from the moral acceptability of the use of slaves against their own wills as sexual playthings, to a new universal code of sexual behavior no longer dependent upon the status of the parties involved; and finally from incest as merely a sin to incest as against nature.

Some give pre-eminence to the search for God especially through diligence in the study of Scripture, in the of contemplation or in the divine human balance of the of the Benedictine Rule.

Race differences

Many institutes of apostolic and missionary life have desired to rethink and make more flexible their manner of living and their community structures so as to respond better to their own nature and purpose. Consequently this office is not attached to a particular parish.

Religious congregation

Therefore the status of the dioceses must be carefully investigated in relation to territory, personnel and means. The choice of chastity, poverty and obedience expresses the resolution to participate in Christ's sacrifice and the glory of his resurrection.
