Independence movement that based its ideology on the concept of Minjok was merely one of the numerous campaigns that strived for national independence, but the concept itself assimilated with the hearts of Koreans. Watu wanyoofu wanaojifunza Biblia na Mashahidi wa Yehova wanakibili upinzani au dhhaka shulenii, kazini, kutoka kwa majirani, au marafiki. Yehova alimbariki Hana naye akapata wana watatu na mabinti wawili.

Sala ya Hana Baada Kumpata Mtoto Samweli

Shin Chaeho not only contributed to movements of Korean nationalism, education, and press, but also decided to remedy the historical distortion by emphasizing the independence and subjectivity of Korea. The subtle sense of ethnic superiority and pride is implicit in the concept of Minjok, and Koreans have been colored with what Minjok has to provide although they might not realize it. Both states claimed that the other Korea did not exist as a legitimate government, and the original inheritance of Minjok belonged to themselves.
