Sadler, David 1960

The policy of import substitution by tariffs has led many other industries to be developed.

to think about the reconquest of our industrial and technological

We propose an analytical discussion of the phenomena of industrialisation, deindustrialisation and reindustrialisation, including a discussion on the connection between the macroeconomic regime and industrial policy, both oriented to reindustrialisation and catching up. For example, in the aviation industry, Russia is developing a significant range of new aircraft.
