The Prevalence of Untouchability in India

Explanation:- A public servant who wilfully neglects the investigation of any offence punishable under this Act shall be deemed to have abetted an offence punishable under this Act. Basic residential services such as water are segregated by caste, meaning that Dalits are forbidden from using the water sources and toilet tanks used by non-Dalits. The latter provision is particularly problematic for agricultural laborers, a majority of whom are Dalits.

Resumption or suspension of grants made by Government: Where the manager or trustee of a place of public worship or any educational institution or hostel which is in respect of a grant of land or money from the Government is convicted of an offence under this Act and such conviction is not reversed or quashed in any appeal or revision, the Government may, if in its opinion the circumstances of the case warrant such a Course, direct the suspension or resumption of the whole or any part of such grant. For example, Gaurav Apartments, a housing development in a middle-class neighborhood in east Delhi, offers two or three bedroom apartments that would normally appeal to professionals seeking housing in the area. Substantive review and comment on the Report was provided by: Jayne Huckerby, Research Director, Center for Human Rights and Global Justice, NYU School of Law.

ATROCITIES AGAINST SCHEDULED CASTES AND SCHEDULED TRIBES

The extreme marginalization and persecution endured by Dalits in India necessitate efforts by the government to ensure their development and protection. In the landmark Supreme Court Case , Thind unsuccessfully argued for his right to citizenship by claiming that his lighter complexion and upper-caste background implied that he was in fact Caucasian.

The Sixth and Seventh Reports of the National Commission for Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes reveal, respectively, that less than a sixth of such cases that reached trial stage in 1999-2000 were actually adjudicated, and that only 11 percent of the cases were disposed of during 2001-2002. Overall, the study found that in 30-40 percent of the villages surveyed, public health workers refused to visit Dalit villages. This has severe repercussions for their health; the majority of scavengers suffer from anaemia, diarrhea, and vomiting, with 62 percent suffering respiratory diseases, 32 percent suffering skin diseases, 42 percent suffering jaundice, and 23 percent suffering trachoma, leading to blindness.
