The background, in sharpest contrast, is a sudden and violent transition to mass collectivised life - to twentieth-century industry civilisation .

The Swordbearers

General von Moltke failed to wield Germany's sword in a single killing stroke during the war's first six weeks when instant victory was all too graspable. Undefeated in battle and the master of surprising military maneuvers, he led a coalition of uncooperative allies with skill and diplomacy. With his flawed cutlass he would not try to strike a blow so heavy that the cutlass might break.
