15 Queer Composers You Should Know

His oratorio, A Child of Our Time, with its famous, and extractable Five Negro Spirituals, remains his most popular work, but his Concerto for Double String Orchestra and his Fantasia Concertante of a Theme of Corelli are also regularly programmed. The traditional portraits of the composer in his mid to late twenties show a rather podgy, bespectacled fellow who could have taken more care in matters of personal grooming.

His symphonies are so powerful and he has a great skill in making spine tingling melodies and powerful builds to endings.

James Nachtwey's 9/11 Photographs

The composer never spoke openly about his lifelong relationship with the tenor Peter Pears but their marital arrangements were never in doubt.

Dutch Contemporary Composers Portrait

This image by Hermann Torggler from 1902 shows the composer in almost demonic fashion - created based on the composer's death mask.
