Business

It will be recalled from the previous chapter how the MITI Minister's father helped arrange with his friend, the Chairman of Prince Motors, a crucial private meeting. Another major set of circumstances which determine what gets done is the strength and attitude of the client relationship between the government and the industry concerned. Why does it succeed in some instances and fail in others? Protection from Foreign Competition: Government should encourage the development of home industries by providing them various subsidies and incentives.

Business Groups in Prewar Japan: Historical Formation and Legacy

The government acts as catalyst and gadfly, guide and arbitrator, banker and patron to assure the desired pattern of industrial development. It is unnecessary, however, to engage in these speculations to be impressed by Japan's development — a development all the more remarkable considering her basic assets.

[PDF] Business

Computers is one of a group of second generation growth industries which have emerged from the drawing boards of Japan's economic planners. This gets to be more the pattern as time goes by.
