NC DHHS: Guardianship and Alternatives to Guardianship

For example, Section V of the , a model set of procedures governing the administration of trusts and estates, contains rules that guide courts in managing guardianships. To carry out the decision at the expense of their offspring, would be in contravention of the priority principle of justice in Islam. A parent can appoint a guardian, usually by naming the guardian in a will.

Wardship

Can the law help us in reimagining the best interests of a child? They are not attorneys and cannot provide legal advice.

Wardship

Also, incarceration of a student does not qualify her as a ward of the court. By doing so, it should learn to find and consolidate its own integrity rather than being a flunkey to any automatic demands for forcible return to the UK by the British Courts when any child should be adamantly against this.

Wardship

A guardian has similar powers, rights and duties respecting their ward as a parent has respecting their children.
