Shepherd digs deep and uncovers and illustrates the degree in which the Qing relied on aborigines to administer policy in Taiwan. The Sydney Gazette reports of tribal atrocities are cast in a skeptical light, with the implication that the colonial newspaper incited settlers to revenge attacks. They never found Loma Santa but they settled there, in the Chimáne forest.

S89: Waywurru / Pallanganmiddang

There are no national monuments to a vanishing people. The way that Commonwealth politicians described the target of normalisation changed during the period of its use, probably deliberately, from an objective of normalising Aboriginal communities themselves to standardising services and infrastructure in those communities. Too Old to Lose, too Rich to Ignore: Aboriginal Plant Use Knowledge in Protected Area Planning, Unpublished Special Project Thesis, Department of Natural and Rural Systems Management, University of Queensland, Gatton, Australia.
