Tech Tactics

We focus on assisting teachers in developing student tech literacy skills outlined in the ISTE student protocols, using best practices established by the TPAK framework, the TIMS rubric, and the SAMR model. The use of ICT in the classroom does appear to be time-consuming, however I believe that if expectations are set at start of the school year, and are purposeful, productive and progressive, the possibilities are endless. What software programs are available for these students? He maintains that the use of computers in the classroom tends to be limited to small groups of teachers who are excited by the potential they feel technology has to motivate their students.
