Approaches to the Qur'an by G.R. Hawting

According to Muslim traditions, it was Prophet Ibrahim who had originally constructed it as the house of God. A truly wondrous feature of the Qur'an is that these signs lose nothing of their power, beauty, and mystery from one generation to the next; each generation has found them compatible with the current state of knowledge. Mohammad Al-Ghazali said that although everyone is addressed by the speech of the Quraan, the reader himself is the one who is addressed in actuality.
