What is the distinction that is being made here between instinct and reason? It includes articles, archival source material, correspondence, photographs, research notes, and draft manuscripts for several of Professor Dower's publications.

Julia Abigail Fletcher Carney

I confess that I feel uneasy when I realize how little the influence of the public library is understood by those who might try to wield that influence, either for good or for evil.

Some of those who are satisfied with us and our work are here put on record. Debevoise document his position as the deputy general counsel with the High Commission for Germany-Office of General Counsel HICOG-OGC from 1950-1953 and his ongoing interest in US-German affairs. There are some who feel inclined to rely implicitly on the information that is to be found in books--to believe that a book can not lie.

And one who reads always for such recreation is thus like the man who is always bandying trivialities, story-telling, and jesting--an excellent, even a necessary, way of passing part of one's time, but a mistaken way of employing all of it. Diaries and memoire are both in English. Where one man knew and loved Shakespeare a century ago, a thousand know and love him to-day.
