The neural substrate of human empathy: effects of perspective-taking and cognitive appraisal. Not feeling happy indicates some sort of failure.

Psychology of Victimhood, Don't Blame the Victim, Article by Ofer Zur, Ph.D.

Victims should never take total responsibility for their suffering; however they must develop an understanding of how they contribute to their own victimization. No CE credits provided for this event.

The psychology of sympathy: I buy a broken pet

A single event, such as robbery, war, plane crash, or rape, does not transform a person into a victim. The Victim-Victimizer Dyad Co-alcoholics are coupled with alcoholics, abusers with abused, masochists with sadists, and victimizers with victims.

The Psychology of Sympathy (Perspectives in Social Psychology)

You could even feel it together, and talk about it together, cry together and maybe even a small laugh will come about. The webinar will also provide practical tools and specific interventions to help clinicians develop confidence to better help their clients. The constitutional promise to all Americans that they have the right to the pursuit of happiness gives rise to the expectation that Americans are supposed to feel happy.

The Paradox of Self

She brings validation, hope, and purpose to individuals and their families living on the autism spectrum. Infants as young as 12 months of age begin to comfort victims of distress, and 14- to 18-month-old children display spontaneous, unrewarded helping behaviors.

The Psychology of Sympathy by Lauren Wispe

. Thus they tend not to come across as self-pitying and are more likely to receive pity from others.

Empathy

She never seems to have anything to celebrate; only complaints.
